

Business Will Cooperate if Old Rules Apply

President Asks Abandonment of Aged Myths, Slogans

NEW YORK (AP)—In his Yale speech President Kennedy makes it plain government wants to cooperate with business—but along the lines of a new economy he envisions.

And in their reaction to the government-business clashes this spring most businessmen have made it plain they think government-business cooperation is essential—but that the old rules should still apply.

In its own reaction the stock market also has stuck close to the old rules—prices go down when uncertainties pile up and hold the possibility of a decline in profits and business activity—no matter who's to blame, government, business, or stock traders themselves.

'Watchful Concern'

The Yale speech seems to put the differences between government and business into clearer focus, if only because of the flat statement that the government will continue its "watchful concern for our economic health" and insist that business and labor live up to their responsibilities to the public interest, as the government interprets it.

The President says in effect his administration is anxious to allay businessmen's fears that it is against them.

But the President calls upon his business critics to give ground—abandon what he calls their stubborn allegiance to old myths and slogans—to move into what he sees as a new era in the nation's economy.

Abandon Fears

His chances of getting this concession by many businessmen immediately would seem pretty slim.

For one thing, they believe sincerely that economic laws don't change that easily, if at all. For another, many sincerely distrust the administration's vision of what would make the nation's economy grow at a faster pace.

And still others note with some alarm a growing campaign to credit Europe's striking recovery from war damage as due to abandoning old fears of deficit financing.

The U.S. Treasury will close its fiscal books June 30 with a deficit. And if new spending proposed to pep up the economy, and tax cuts envisioned for next year, take final form, the chances for deficit financing in the next fiscal year are strong.

Strengthen Dollar

Many fear this will fire up another round of inflation. To the ordinary citizen this means that the cost of living goes up because the market value of the dollar goes down.

Others, including many of the President's close advisers, insist that the deficit spending will so pep up the economy that in following years there will be Treasury surpluses, strengthening the dollar in the long run.

The Idea is Only Part of the Administration's Feeling that the government can't stand aside when the growth of the U.S. economy is at stake.

Graham Calls Youth To Missionary Work

CHICAGO (AP)—A call for youth to give up their lives of leisure and accept the challenge of missionary work has been issued by evangelist Billy Graham in his "Crusade for Christ" in Chicago.

Graham said young people are needed as missionaries both overseas and at home in their own communities.

Speaking to a crowd of 43,000 at McCormick Place in the 17th rally of the 19-day crusade, Graham told those under 25 in the audience they should make commitments to God.

Nixon Says No Deals Will be Made With Shell

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A California Republican official says Richard M. Nixon told him no deals would be made with Joseph C. Shell to get the assemblyman's support in Nixon's bid for the governorship.

Caspar Weinberger, vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, quoted Nixon Friday as saying:

"There will be no deals of any kind, but I'll talk with any candidates or party leaders on their ideas for the party platform and program."

Shell, a conservative who was defeated by the former vice president in the Republican gubernatorial primary, offered Thursday to support Nixon if he met two "minimum conditions": Give the Republicans who voted for Shell 35 per cent of the California delegation to the 1964 GOP National Convention and promise a $200 million cut in the state budget.

Grissom Visits His Home Town

MITCHELL, Ind. (AP)—The home town turned out today to honor Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom—astronaut, Air Force captain and Kentucky colonel.

Gov. Matthew E. Welsh and President Frederick L. Hovde of Purdue University, Grissom's alma mater, headed the list of notables coming for the celebration.

After spending the night at his parents' home on Grissom Avenue (newly renamed), Grissom, 36, was scheduled to lay the cornerstone for Mitchell's new high school, which will be named the Virgil I. Grissom Building.

America's second man in space came home late Friday. He came by auto from Louisville, Ky., and did not use Grissom Municipal Airport (also recently renamed) at nearby Bedford.

Talks Will Resume Today as Strike at Ford Idles 50,000

DETROIT (AP)—Union bargainers were expected to return to the Ford Motor Co. office today for talks which could decide a strike which could idle 50,000 Ford employees across the nation can go back to work.

The firm stopped the last of its auto assembly operations Friday because, Ford said, an Ohio strike has choked off the supply of parts, doors, roofs and other hardware.

Ford, the nation's second largest auto manufacturing empire, blamed the closures on a strike at Ford's Walton Hills stamping plant near Cleveland which began eight days ago.

The plant was one of the last to settle local grievances during national negotiations between Ford and the United Auto Workers on a three-year contract last fall. The new dispute is over work quotas.

Childhood Sighs Delightful Reading

"O Ye Jigs and Joleps" is the title of an entertaining little book on display this week at the Appleton Public Library.

Virginia Cary Hudson was a precocious 10-year-old in 1904, when she wrote these short themes for her teacher in boarding school. Recently, they were discovered in an attic trunk by her daughter, who brought them to the attention of the publishers.

The collection is a child's observation of her friends, young and old, her parents, herself, and life in general.

Her impressions are charming. "When you stroll you never hurry back, because if you had anything to do, you wouldn't be strolling in the first place."

"Etiquette is what you are doing and saying when people are looking and listening. What you are thinking is your business."

10-Year-Old Comments

Other 10-year-old comments: "The Library is where my father took his check book when I broke the window. I was only trying to kill a fly." "When my mother got home from Middleton on the trolley car, she said plainly, 'And when I thought she had said everything there was to say, she still had plenty left.'"

Each chapter is a gem and delightful reading from start to finish.

Gladys Taher's latest journal of Stillmeadow portrays four seasons of adventures in country living.

Great Bargain

"The Stillmeadow Road" begins with the buying of the old house in Connecticut after searching hopelessly for more than two years. It was a great bargain even if the plumbing was all cracked and the furnace broken. The walls needed papering and the front bedroom leaked, but at

Some of the Oldest Alumni at the Lawrence College commencement weekend were Miss H. Elizabeth Mott, left; Forrest E. Kellogg, Chamblee, Ga., both class of '01; and Olla Perry, class of 1896. The ladies make their home in Peabody, Manoir. Kellogg has become a commencement-time legend at Lawrence, for as recently as five years ago he swam the Fox River to show the present generation what men were like at the turn of the century. Kellogg was on one of the earliest Lawrence baseball teams.

'Needy' Poland Takes Aid to Supply Spain

BY VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — When ever there's a profit in it, the Soviet bloc leaders swiftly and easily forget their self-inflicted pain over Franco Spain. There are, for example, those class-conscious leaders of Communist Poland.

They are so sensitive over our relations with Madrid. But they are not so sensitive when it comes to taking zlotys from the Generalissimo. When, during the recent strike of the Asturian miners, Spain ran short of coal—Warsaw eased Madrid's needs.

Vast tonnage of coal was loaded aboard freighters in the Polish harbor of Gdynia. They steamed out to Spain's Northwestern Asturian port of Gijon. This is Franco's busiest coal port. As the ships sailed, more and more vessels were loaded in Gdynia. The Poles intended to create a water-borne conveyor belt.

But when the first two freighters arrived in Gijon, the Spanish dockers respected the strike. They refused to unload. Did the Communist Poles pick up steam and go back to their proletarian haven? Did they renege the picket line? By Karl Marx' beard, they did not. The Communist crews were ordered to crack that line. They did. Franco's Spain got its Polish coal.

Zlotys are Different
Suppose American owners and American crews had done that. Khrushchev would have walked into some reception and denounced them as dirty fascists making dirty dollars. But zlotys are different.

However, U.S. coal operators don't get as much chance as they used to to ship coal to Spain these days. The Polish Communist leaders are undercutting us. We aid them. They underprice us. Our coal in Virginia and W. Virginia stays in stockpiles. Our coal-diggers become human stockpiles.

This has been developing for some time. The latest statistics I have reveal that the Poles have been doing quite a business with the Spaniards. In 1961, they signed a pact calling for 80,000 tons of coal to be delivered by Warsaw.

In a speech before the Ladies Garment Workers' Union the other week, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, blasted Poland. There has been no sound out of Warsaw. Perhaps Polish leader Gomulka is too busy with other matters of international trade.

He has a problem with our U.S. Senate. And merely to complicate that problem and strain his dialectics, I hereby report on Poland's trade with none other than Fidel Castro of Cuba—one of our suburbs.

Polish Neutrality

This report comes at a moment when Poland's intermediaries are telling our State Dept. intermediaries that it would not sit well with Polish efforts at neutrality if we cut off aid and food.

Poland would need less aid if they need food. Yet they are dispatching agricultural machinery to Castro. Also building machinery. Also machine tools and transport equipment. On the list is "consumer durables"—meaning radios and gas stoves. The Polish people could use those, too.

If the good folks of Poland need food from us, why is Poland this very minute shipping "agricultural produce and foodstuffs, including: bacon, potatoes, flour and casein (a protein milk product—V.R.)."

So here we are. We supply Poland. Its leaders deprive its own people and Warsaw supplies first.

This Polish neutrality is mighty strange. And it comes at a mighty high price for us. Let's at least insist they feed their own people first.

Summer School Time to Pursue Electives, Strengthen Background

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

There are pitfalls as well as opportunities in summer school for credit.

Summer school courses crowd about 19 weeks' work into six weeks. For some students this is good.

If they have made low grades in geometry, history or any other course, and can run over the same work quickly in summer school, this will give them an opportunity to organize their thoughts and strengthen their basic knowledge. They already have their records to avoid manual in mind many of the basic facts and ideas, and rapid review will necessitate a broad approach.

Actually a low grade in one of these subjects is not that important. Such an experience prepares the weak students for better work in the future.

On the other hand, a student taking a beginning course for the first time in summer school may be headed for trouble. Unless he has unusual ability, there is a good chance that he will not acquire a satisfactory foundation.

This is especially true if he is placed in a class made up largely of repeaters. Summer classes offered for credit at the junior or senior high school level should be geared either to the slow group or the fast group of learners—not both.

Parents should determine what kind of pupils their child will be associated with as well as the purpose for which the course is being offered.

Summer school provides an opportunity for students to maintain skills between school terms as well as to catch up.

The 12-week vacation is long enough for many students to grow "stale" in their work habits and to forget partially learned subject matter, especially in languages. Repeating the last course may be helpful.

An Important Opportunity

Summer school offers opportunity for pursuing rewarding electives.

High school students find it hard enough to meet college requirements during the regular school year. There is no room in their programs for typing, shorthand, art or music.

Each of these subjects requires some manual skill. Training in hands to do an unaccustomed task may require an extended period of practice.

I have known high school students who answered the district phone. I am trying to help a man in East Chicago who wants to know who buys mosquitoes. I am sure you do not as Cook County has an ample supply and I have scratch marks to back up that statement.

The lady was far more sympathetic and understanding than I expected. "There was something like that in a newspaper," she said. "One of our men brought in a clipping and has been telling everyone. 'Save your dead mosquitoes. They are worth $12 a gram.'"

A gram amounts to one-thousandth of a kilogram. And a kilogram is equivalent to 2.20462234 pounds. The value was going up so fast I began to worry whether I could recover the carcass of the one I slapped silly last night.

"Could I speak with this man with the clipping?" I asked.

"I'm sorry, but he's out."

This made sense. He either was crating mosquitoes for shipment or waiting for the Brink's truck to bring in the proceeds of yesterday's load.

Used by Doctors

After many tense hours the lady called back. She had the clipping which stated the price of dried ground insects had gone up $2 a bug, it added, are used by doggram to $5.455-20 a pound. The tors for allergy tests and inoculations.

Unhappily, however, the clipping did not name or otherwise identify the processor paying these prices. Tough luck for the man in East Chicago but it could be tougher. What if all his mosquitoes were alive?

The Republican Statement

Twelve Republican Congressmen, led by Wisconsin's Rep. Melvin Laird, have written a set of principles upon which they think the Republican Party can stand in its struggle for increased representation in Congress in next fall's elections. The principles are good enough to become elated over. They ought to be a solid basis for argument against those who claim there no longer is any difference between Republicans and Democrats.

There is an emphasis in the statement, intended or not, upon the importance of checks and balances in our country, not merely in the structure of government but throughout the nation. "We want government to be pro-business and pro-labor," it says, and "the current administration has shown little understanding of, or concern for, institutions that buttress freedom at home—separation of powers, checks and balances, state and local responsibility, and a free economy."

Whatever the Democrats in the South may argue, the present administration shows all the signs of having given up on state and local responsibilities. It is quite true that smaller units of government have often shunted aside their responsibilities, an action that invariably turns people toward Washington. But if we are to maintain any check upon the federal regime, strenuous efforts should be made to build up the smaller units and to encourage them to take greater responsibility. The Democrats, except in the South, have no time or taste for it. And every time an added power goes to Washington there is an added link in a chain of a super state that will become increasingly powerful — and increasingly dangerous.

The Republicans have stated firmly that "incentives for overproduction" in the farm program must be removed. The Democratic answer to the ever increasing tax burden from farm subsidies is federal control of production. As far as medical costs are concerned, there also is a definite difference between the parties. Instead of the forced insurance plan operating through the Social Security Administration as the Democrats want, the Republican statement speaks of "effective tax relief for medical and hospital insurance" and "government action to increase the coverage of voluntary insurance plans and to help older citizens having difficulty meeting the costs of adequate coverage."

The statement of principles is a fine one. It should help Republican candidates next November.

Peace Is Wonderful

All is joyful in Laos after more than a year of bickering during which the Communists put on the pressure of military force and the United States turned the thumb screws of threats to cut off aid. A coalition government has been formed. Probably the smartest of all the principles involved in this comic opera with tragic overtones is Prince Boun Oum, who has announced his resignation.

The agreement was reached only after Prince Souvanna Phouma warned that his bags were all packed and he was fixing to leave for Paris unless accord was reached by June 15. Suddenly all the opposition to neutralists controlling key ministry posts disappeared. Souvanna is to be premier and defense minister. His half-brother, the Communist in the trio, Prince Souvanaphong, will be a deputy premier and economics minister. The pro-Western Gen. Phoumi Nosavan also gets to be a deputy premier and minister of finance. A neutralist, Pheng Phongsavan, will be interior minister in charge of the police.

The entire cabinet consists of nineteen men; four are Communist members of the Pathet Lao, four are part of the present royal government and eleven are called neutrals. However, even here there is a classification. Seven are "rebel neutralists" and four are "Vientiane neutralists" which immediately upsets the balance of neutrality. But if there is anything at all to government by committee and with all points of view represented and supposedly then able to work in peace and harmony, Laos ought to have the most harmonious government the world has ever seen.

In the light of the confusion over who was what in Laos and the lack of enthusiasm by everyone except Communists for fighting a jungle guerrilla war in the area, we do not particularly blame our government for backing the coalition regime. But we think Washington ought to make some efforts to get six Americans released by the Pathet Lao. The six were captured last year and the Pathet Lao last November said they would be released when the coalition government was formed. Now, however, Prince Souvanaphong airily says, "We will think about it. Anyway, it isn't an important matter."

If holding noncombatant prisoners and breaking promises are not important to Souvanaphong, we wonder just how long it will be before the borders are closed and the wall goes up.

Prevention of Air Blackmail Purpose of U. S. Space Study

BY WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
Chicago Daily News Service
WASHINGTON — Suppose the Russians should decide to put a hydrogen bomb into orbit.

And suppose they had it fixed so that it could be brought down on us by radio command from Moscow.

The blackmail possibilities of this monster of destruction hanging over us would be enormous — unless we had the means to counteract it.

This is the sort of problem that is beginning to receive increased attention from the Defense Department.

Seek Cool Peace
The United States clings to the hope that outer space can be kept in cool peace, with nothing hotter happening than the U.S.-U.S.S.R. race to land a man on the moon.

As evidence of this, the United States is still putting its biggest chips on the moon project and other items connected with the peaceful space exploration.

To carry this ambitious program forward, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been allotted $3.7 billion in the fiscal 1963 budget.

The United States, however, wants to have the necessary knowledge so that it will not be caught by surprise if a military threat should develop in space.

No Crash Program
The latest indication of this was provided this week by testimony given before the senate space committee by two high-level defense department officials — Deputy Defense Sec. Roswell L. Gilpatric and Harold Brown, director of defense research and engineering.

The military role in space could be vitally important one day — but it is not being pushed on a crash basis. Only $1.5 billion, less than half of the civilian space agency's budget, will go for military space activities in fiscal 1963.

The idea is to seek basic knowledge now so that valuable time can be saved later if it should be necessary to translate it into space weapons.

The United States does not accept as a fact that the cold war inevitably will spread to outer space.

It does not want to give the Russians any pretext for a military effort in space.

It does not want to interfere with the attempt now under way to achieve a modicum of co-operation with the Russians in space programs.

For all of these reasons, the military space program will concentrate on technology rather than "hardware."

One of the next big goals in the U. S. space program is something that both military and civilian space men are interested in developing — the technique of achieving a rendezvous in space.

It sounds fantastic, but in another year or two you are going to begin reading news bulletins like this:

"The Agena rocket has separated from its Atlas booster and gone into orbit."

"Now the two astronauts in the Gemini spacecraft are closing in. After some delicate maneuvering, they manage to hook up with the speeding rocket."

"This is what it was like today when a rendezvous in orbit was achieved for the first time, marking another milestone on the road to conquest of space."

The Air Force and NASA have plans to co-operate on this one.

The civilians see this type of rendezvous as a possible means of hastening man's journey to the moon. The military men see it as a means of counteracting that bomb, if the Russians should ever put it into orbit.

As part of the knowledge-gathering program, some space hardware is being developed by the military. The Air Force, for instance, is developing its own spacecraft along with a rocket to boost it into orbit and astronauts to fly it.

The Dyna Soar, as the spacecraft is called, will provide information that could be incorporated into a military spacecraft. It is still on the drawing boards at Boeing but it may be ready in another couple of years

Not for Biologicals—Yet

Scientists Now Can See Atoms in Metal

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — What vistas will the ion microscope, the world's most powerful, open?

They're limited only by man's imagination, says its inventor, Dr. Erwin W. Muller of Penn State University.

Every new advance in microscopy in the past has opened doors to new knowledge.

The light microscope is indispensable in clinical medicine. It has permitted scientists to study cells, bacteria, cancer tissue. It has furthered fields of biology, botany, metallurgy.

But the best light microscope can not magnify an object more than 3,000 times because the light ray is too "coarse" for smaller particles.

Up by 300,000
With discovery of the electron microscope, which casts images by means of electrons rather than light, magnification went up to 300,000.

This permitted the virus to be seen for the first time and broke open new fields in human, animal and plant diseases, as well as in industry.

The metallurgist could now take a metal surface, grind it perfectly as viewed under a light microscope, then look at it under an electron microscope and see furrows and grooves.

With the new ion emission microscope, scientists can see defects in metals that look perfect under the electron microscope.

Magnification has been increased to 2,000,000.

For the first time, science is able to see individual atoms that

President Starts Public Re-Education In Modern Economics

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

NEW YORK—At Yale on Monday the President made a most important address — for the domestic economy the most significant, it seems to me, since he was inaugurated. In it he described, as he has never before done so explicitly, what it is that is new in the New Frontier.

Unlike Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, the Kennedy administration is not working for a change in the balance of social forces within the country. Roosevelt used the power of the federal government to increase the influence of agriculture and of labor, as compared with the influence of business, and of the underdeveloped South and West as compared with the Northeast.

at the same time that the Titan III rocket is supposed to come into operation.

Will Have Wings
The Dyna Soar will be a one-seater and will have wings so that it can glide back to earth and land at an airport.

The Titan III will represent the first fruits of the experimentation the Air Force has been charged with conducting into big solid-fueled rockets. It will consist of a liquid-fueled Titan II onto which solid-fueled segments have been strapped. Planned to be the space workhorse of the air force, it will have the capacity to lift 25,000 to 30,000 pounds into orbit.

The Air Force astronauts are being trained at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Five were graduated in December, eight are studying now, and an indefinite number will be turned out in the future, according to Pentagon authorities.

The military role in space includes communication and navigation satellites, as well.

Finally, there are a couple of special numbers that U. S. officials talk very little about — but experimental versions of both are believed to be orbiting over the Soviet Union now.

One is Samos, a "spy-in-the-sky" that carries a television camera. The other is Midas, designed to provide 30 minutes' warning of a Soviet Missile attack (double the present margin) through infra-red instruments geared to detect the flight of missiles as soon as they are launched.

The battles of the New Deal era were in the classic pattern of social struggle, of the haves-nots against the haves.

These battles were won by Roosevelt and a new balance of forces was firmly established. This was proved during the eight years of President Eisenhower when there was no attempt to repeal and undo the New Deal.

The Kennedy administration begins where Eisenhower left off. It is not seeking another change in the structure of American society but on the contrary, to make more efficient the existing balance of forces. It is confronted, however, with a cultural gap, that is to say with popular beliefs about the economy which are a generation out of date.

With rare exceptions the leaders of both parties hold to economic doctrines which have long since been abandoned as antiquated by all the progressive and advanced countries of the world. Gov. Rockefeller understands modern economic doctrine, but men like Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Byrd talk as if they had never read a book on economic matters which has been written since the Great Depression of 1929.

Re-Education Needed

If President Kennedy is to fulfill his promises, if he is to raise the American economy from the creeping stagnation which has come upon it in the second half of the Fifties, if he is to recover the industrial pre-eminence which we once had and have now lost, the administration will have to do a mighty job of public re-education. If our leaders do not learn to understand modern economics, we shall not be able to operate successfully the modern economy.

It is this work of re-education which the President began at Yale. It was a very good beginning. But, of course, one speech will not do what needs to be done — which is to close the cultural gap and put American public opinion and American political debate in touch with the realities of the modern age.

This re-education is not a fight between good men and bad men, between rich men and poor men, between Republicans and Democrats. It is, like all education, a search for enlightenment in which all who participate bravely will be the winners.

Looking Backward

Menasha Paper, Motor Agree

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 12, 1962.

It is gratifying to a truly patriotic heart to observe the spirit of self-sacrifice with which all who place their love of country above the rabid selfishness and hatreds of mere partyism are being brought to the conclusion, one by one, that it is the urgent duty of every true lover of Free Institutions in this once happy land, to labor in all appropriate ways not only for the speedy putting down of the Pro-Slavery Rebellion, but for the equally speedy extirpation of its guilty cause.

Not a few of the more liberal and independent Democrats of the times have thus risen above the sordid grovelings of party in their glorious utterances, and many an honest man who never troubled his head about politics in his life has responded with a fervent Amen.

With these few unnecessary remarks — but which we could not help making — we take pleasure in inviting the attention of our readers to the following extract from an article in the Menasha Manufacturer of last Thursday, a paper well known for ignoring party politics in its columns:

"The Third Wisconsin Regiment was in Gen. Banks division and was badly cut up in his late retreat. One of the companies of this regiment was raised here and in common with the others suffered severely.

Those who were but lately among us now find a place on those sickening lists — the returns of the sick, wounded and missing. Our flags wave at half-mast. Consternation and sorrow walk abroad in our streets — strong men are bowed down with grief.

What matters it to us who are having our homes made desolate, whether popular sovereignty was or was not implied in the Constitution?

What do we care for compromises which politicians broke when it suited, and for the imaginary lines rubbed out when party tactics required it?

Even those among us who thought at first the Government was too hard on the South and should have tried gentler measures — even those once moderate men are now among the loudest to denounce the wickedness of the secessionists.

We may have all shades of politics — there can be but one opinion on this point. Let us look the matter calmly in the face and see what has caused all this misery and ruin? What has almost destroyed our government and rent our country in twain? What is now coming closer to us, entering our very dwellings and breaking up our home circles forever?

There is no use nincing or blinking the matter.

It is simply slavery. That is the root of the whole evil.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, June 12, 1937

Lawrence seniors Jane Cornell of Appleton and Frederick Leech, Milwaukee, climaxed annual ceremonies for Class Day. Miss Cornell, last year's winner of the junior spade and Leech, the junior spoon, made the presentation of the awards to the new winners.

Raymond P. Dohr, Outagamie County district attorney and esteemed leading knight of the Appleton Elks Lodge, was named Flag Day speaker for the civic celebration the next Tuesday night. The event was sponsored by the Appleton Elks Lodge. The 120th Field Artillery Band under the direction of Orville J. Thompson was to present a concert.

Members of the Jolly Nine Card Club met for a party at the home of Mrs. Will Fox, Marion. Prizes were won by Mrs. Gus Herman and Mrs. Mary Miller.

Young people of St. John Parish in Menasha were preparing the performance of the three-act play, "What a Wife." Byron Seroogy, Neenah, was director and the cast included John C. Omachinski, Cha-ter A. Rembleski, E. J. Oerowski, Alvin Danoski, Monica Buzanoski, Cecilia Dombrowski, Regina Sylvanowicz, Edith Brodzinski, and Elsie Zelinski.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, June 14, 1952

Gordon Toepke was named chief of the Fremont Volunteer Fire Department. Otto Puls was relected assistant fire chief and Orville Zemple secretary and treasurer.

Richard (Dick) Boya, former Lawrence College athlete and resident of Appleton, took over his duties as the new golf professional at the New London Golf Club.

Carroll Ritchie, president, and Ormond W. Capener, vice president of the New London Rotary Club, attended the annual district conference of the organization. They were accompanied by their wives.

Winners in the fifth annual Children's Flag Day parade in Appleton the previous day included William Buchanan for the best decorated bicycle, James Rolloff for the best float, Lois Cotton for the best decorated doll buggy, and Judy Quella for the best decorated tricycle.

Hostesses for the picnic of the Sunshine Club of the George D. Eggleston Relief Corps were Mrs. Catherine Mollon, Mrs. Mildred Kohl and Mrs. Hattie Lappen.

Charles J. Hervey left for Europe to work with the United States government as a site planner and landscape architect. He was a civilian employee of the 20th Air Force.

Fox Cities hostesses for the Senior Girl Scout encampment at Chalk Hills included Patty Arthur, Carol Browning and Karen Malmstrom of Appleton and Jacqueline Martiny of Neenah. The senior scouts were to work with the staff on the encampment program for senior scouts from six Wisconsin cities.

Sales Techniques

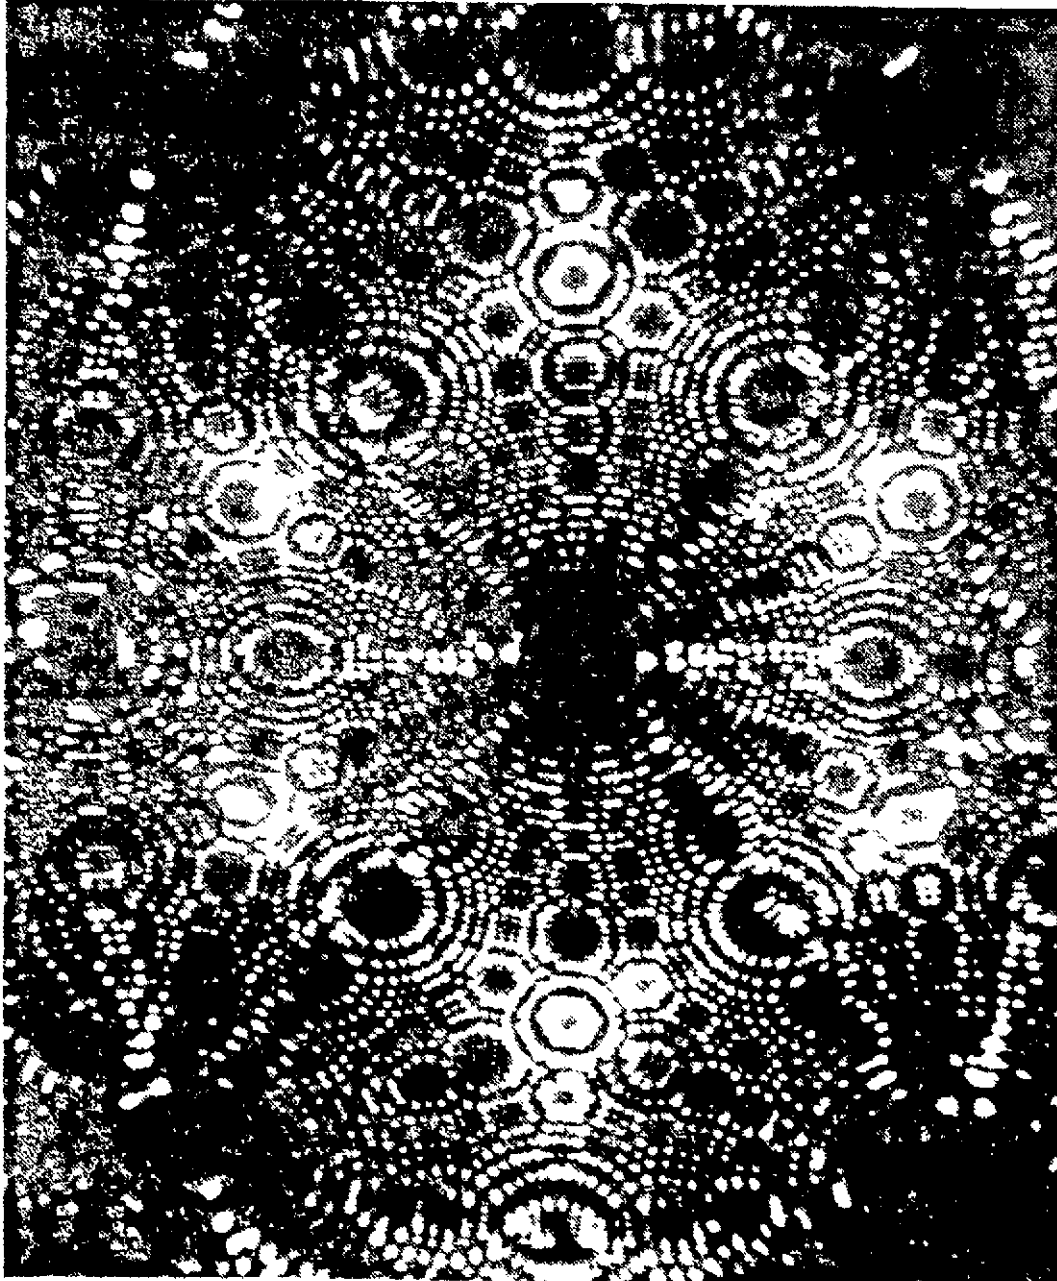

From Printing Impressions

Two shoe salesmen arrived simultaneously in a primitive country to open a branch office. One said, "Nobody here wears shoes. Am returning home." The other said, "Nobody here has shoes. Double the first shipment."

Minute Steaks Galore

From the Emporia (Kans.) Gazette

Production of meat in the U. S. is running ahead at a rapid pace, says a report from Chicago, which may account for so many minute steaks on the market.

Dr. Erwin W. Muller of Pennsylvania State University showed this photograph to fellow scientists in Chicago this week and described it as an enormous enlargement of the point of a pin in which the atoms were visible. Dr. Muller said magnification is more than five times as great as the electron microscope and 5,000 times that of the most powerful light microscope — powerful enough to give a clear view of atoms of metals. Hefty Western Star Says He Feels Great

Dan Blocker of TV's 'Bonanza' Claims Excess Weight Is Asset

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amid a nation of calorie-counters, "Bonanza's" Dan Blocker stands out like a monument. He's 260 pounds of unabashed bulk.
None of that safflower oil and gluten bread for Dan. Why should he ruin his meal ticket?
Yet when I met up with the towering Texan, he was lunching on cottage cheese salad and gelatin. "Picked up eight pounds on P.A.'s," he explained, referring to personal appearances, any television star's bread and butter.
"Trouble with those tours is everybody wants to feed you. They give you a big breakfast and a big lunch and then a big dinner, thinking they're doing you a favor. You feel like a heel not to eat."
Dan admitted he would probably take off 50 pounds if he gave up by eating a few things. But he hasn't yet found enough reason. And he'd be in danger of destroying the image of the big, blustery Hoss Cartwright on NBC's Sunday night Western.
Health problems? He's got none. Even got a top rating in an insurance physical exam recently.
"Can hardly remember when I didn't weigh at least 200 pounds," he said. "Never worried me, though my folks thought about it. I guess. Once when I was about 10 and weighed 200, they put me in the car and took me to a pediatrician in Lubbock, Texas."
"He examined me and said, 'There's nothing wrong with this boy; he's just going to be a big son of a gun.'"
The Army gave him the same bill of health, even though at 310 pounds he was well over the usual limit. "We'll make an exception in your case," said the doctor, and Dan replied, "thanks a bunch."

Defenders Has Simple Story Of Young Love

BY THE TV SCOUT
7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — The Defenders repeats one of its most powerfully emotional dramas. John Vlahos' script tells a simple story of young love, with the very youth of the lovers the cause of their problem. Burt Brinckerhoff and Lynn Loring give scintillating performances as a pair of 17-year-olds.

3:30-5 (Channel 4-5) — Weather permitting, you'll see the climactic four holes of the National Open Golf Championship this afternoon. This year's golfing classic comes from the Oakmont, Pa., Country Club.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — There's an intriguing case on the Perry Mason repeat tonight. This is one of those small-town affairs, with a couple of skeletons rattling away in some of the best closets. Mason's client is a youth, played by Jeremy Slate, who is accused of beating a man to death.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Room For One More proves its title—there's always room for one more show around an old plot idea, provided it's well done. This one is. The old idea is the one about Daddy (Andrew Duggan) who doesn't want to do something (go to a dance) and seizes on an excuse (the falls and twists his ankle) to get out of it.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Leave it to Beaver has fun with yet another twist on its favorite theme—Beaver misbehaves and must face up to confessing his sin. Beaver and two friends are alone in the house and suddenly decide to call Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Don Dysdale.

7:30-8 (Channel 4-5) — The Tall Man repeats a simple story of a man at a moral crossroads. Barry Sullivan is the man, who finds the coward whose betrayal resulted in a death during the Civil War.

8-10 (Channel 4-5) — Saturday Night At the Movies repeats "Broken Arrow," a film which spawned a TV series. In this 1949 film version, Jeff Chandler is Cochise with James Stewart as Jeffords and Debra Paget as the Indian girl Stewart marries. (Color)

Pistol-Packing Woman Foils Robber's Plans

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — A 58-year-old woman storekeeper foiled a holdup Friday by grabbing a handy pistol, then chased the would-be robber two blocks and captured him.

Mrs. R. B. Rhodes said she was standing by a cash register and a box containing between $500 and $600 when a man came in with a hand in his pocket as though he had a pistol.

"Give me the money, give me the money," she quoted the man as saying.

Mrs. Rhodes said she picked up a pistol and pointed it at him and he ran from the store so fast he knocked down a rack as he went by.

Leaving a friend in the store to call police, Mrs. Rhodes darted in pursuit, the pistol still in her hand. Two blocks later the man surrendered, apparently afraid he would be shot.

County police held James Tolbert Robinson, a 32-year-old Negro grass cutter on a charge of attempted robbery.

Dan Blocker, 260 pound "Hoss" on the "Bonanza" television series, claims he has no health problems. "I even got a top rating in an insurance physical exam," Blocker says he could probably take off 50 pounds but he hasn't yet found enough reason.

Graduate Two From Harvard

Fox Cities College Students Get Degrees

More Fox Cities students have graduated from colleges across the country.

Dale J. Herman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin E. Herman, 1101 E. Marquette St., received a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York.

Frederick A. Corsmeier, Appleton, received a bachelor of science in business administration from Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

John Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Schultz, route 2, Amherst, received his bachelor of

Chain Leases 19 Wisconsin Movie Theaters

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Prudential Theater Co., operator of 58 moviehouses in the East, has leased 19 Wisconsin theaters, it was announced.

Involved in the transaction, one of the biggest of its kind in the state in recent years, were theaters owned by Joseph J. Zilber, a Milwaukee real estate man, and L. F. Gran, also of Milwaukee.

There was no property involved in the deal, and none of the parties would discuss terms. However, it was understood that percentages of earnings were a major consideration.

Eight of the theaters are in Milwaukee and one in nearby West Allis.

Others, all owned by Zilber, are the Strand and Starlight outdoor, in Green Bay; the Orpheum in Kenosha; the Jeffris, Myers and Hi-Way 26 outdoor, Janesville; Fox, Lyrie and Hi-Way 51, Stevens Point and the Wausau in Wausau.

Al P. Frank of Fond du Lac, who has been associated with Zilber in the theater business, was named general manager of the Wisconsin chain taken over by Prudential. The firm, with headquarters in New York City, is headed by J. M. Seider, Hempstead, N. Y.

State Officer To be Speaker For KC Program

KAUKAUNA — Robert Bodden, Plattville, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, will be guest speaker for the dinner program to be held in conjunction with dedication ceremonies for the new Knights of Columbus hall Sunday.

The noon dinner will be served in St. Mary parish hall following mass and communion at the church. After the dinner a formal ribbon cutting ceremony will take place at the $50,000 clubhouse. Members and guests will then be permitted to tour the building.

Foxes Register 6-3 Win Over Clinton

Cosgrove Hurls Fourth Triumph

BY RALPH MUELLER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Husky Steve Cosgrove survived a shaky first two innings Friday night and went on to hurl the Fox Cities Foxes to a 6-3 victory over the Clinton C-Sox at Goodland Field.

The final game of the series will be played here tonight with Jerry Bean taking the hill for the Foxes.

Both John Scott and Marv Staehle, of the C-Sox, banged line drives to right field to open the first-inning action. After John Raffaele fanned, veteran Bill DiCrista cracked a double to right to score two runs.

Cosgrove Scruggs

Cosgrove gave up a pair of hits and hit a batter as one run scored in the second to give Clinton a 3-0 advantage.

The tide turned in the third after the Houston, Tex., right hander hit the first man up in the inning. The next batter, Bob McKillop, hit into a weird double play before Cosgrove went on to hurl seven goose-egg frames. The twin-killing went from Cosgrove to Bob Litchfield but the Litchfield relay to first landed against the screen behind the first base dugout. First baseman Dan Markowski retrieved the ball and fed it to Litchfield to get McKillop trying to take second on the over-throw.

It was probably the best game of Cosgrove's career and now gives him a 4-3 record. He struck out seven but still showed some wildness tendencies. He walked six, threw two wild pitches, and hit two batters.

In addition, he slammed his first hit of the season when he singled in the third inning.

John Scruggs proved once again to be the big gun offensively. The fleet center fielder's triple in the fourth brought home the first two runs. Scruggs also had a single in the second.

John Price, playing his first game in over two weeks following tenure on the disabled list, had 2-for-4. He had one of the Foxes' seven hits in the fourth inning which helped to account for all six runs.

John Bauer started for Clinton but left in the Foxes big fourth frame. He was followed by John

UW's Jackson Fails to Regain His Eligibility

MADISON (AP)—University of Wisconsin basketball star Ron Jackson failed to complete his school work in the semester just ended and remains ineligible, the UW athletic department announced Friday.

Jackson, who averaged 22 points a game before becoming ineligible after the first half of last season, could regain his eligibility only by taking a heavy load in summer school. He hasn't indicated whether he will take the work or whether he plans to return to school next fall.

Jackson's scholastic deficiencies include one incomplete.

The football squad has regained the services of Jim Nettles, a halfback from Muncie, Ind., and the squad's leading ground gainer in 1961.

Nettles had been declared scholastically ineligible at the close of the fall semester. His scholastic work during the spring term restored his eligibility.

Football coach Milt Bruhn also was notified that all other candidates he hopes to fit into Wisconsin's coming football campaign are scholastically available.

Pirates Rally for 7 Runs in Eighth Inning To Edge Braves, 9-8

Burdette Will Start Against Law Tonight

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves' Hank Aaron well could be considering today just how much one man has to do to insure a victory.

Against the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night the Milwaukee outfielder slugged his fifth grand slam homer and added three singles in five trips and finished with five runs driven in, but it wasn't enough.

The Pirates, paced by a grand slam by Roberto Clemente, came from behind for seven runs in the eighth inning and went on to a 9-8 victory, their seventh triumph in a row.

The Pirates had been limited to three hits by Milwaukee starter Tony Cloninger through seven innings and trailed 8-2 when they came to bat in the eighth.

Cloninger walked Dick Groat with one out and gave up a single to Bob Skinner and had a two ball, no strike count on Dick Stuart when he was sent away to the showers. Hank Fischer came out of the bullpen, gave a bloop single to short right to Stuart and then served up the grand slam pitch to Clemente.

Sixth of Year
The homer was Clemente's sixth of the year and the fifth grand slam of his career. It brought a popping demonstration from a fan who tossed fireworks onto the field. The game was held up until the smoke cleared and then the Pirates kept their own fireworks display moving.

After Fischer tossed a ball to Smokey Burgess he was replaced by Don Nottebart, who got Burgess on a roller. Don Hoak then drew a walk and took second on a wild pitch. Bill Mazeroski beat out a grounder over second before Jim Marshall came along in a pinch-batting role and singled to center, scoring Hoak.

Bob Hendley replaced Don Nottebart and gave up a single to Bill Virdon, Mazeroski scoring.

Davies Meets Povall for British Title

HOLYAKE, England (AP) — A California real estate man and a young Welshman who sells ladies' shoes and handbags shot it out today for the coveted British Amateur Golf Championship.

Both Richard Davies, 31, from Pasadena, Calif., and John Povall, 23, who had a brief fling as a professional before he was reinstated as an amateur three years ago, are golf unknowns.

They reached the finals while better known golfers fell by the wayside.

Both are long hitters, with Davies so long he is called "boom-boom" here. Povall also gets off the tee well and is even longer than Davies with the irons.

Davies knocked off England's David Palmer 2 and 1 and then won his semifinal match against England's Rodney Foster 3 and 2 Friday.

Povall gained his berth by upsetting Brian Chapman, a British Walker Cup star, 1-up in the semifinals after getting by Harry Kinlock 4 and 2.

LC-K, Freedom Try for Fifth Wins Sunday

Seek to Remain Undefeated in Valley League

FOX RIVER VALLEY LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.	GB
Freedom	4	0	1.000	—
LC-Kimberly	3	1	.750	1
Fond du Lac	2	2	.500	2
Menasha	2	2	.500	2
Harrison	1	3	.250	3

Sunday's Schedule:
LC-Kimberly at Kaukauna.
Fond du Lac at Freedom.
Menasha at Morrison.
Green Bay at Harrison.

The Little Chute-Kimberly and the Freedom baseball teams, now well ahead of the rest of the pack in the Fox River Valley League's first-round championship race, bid for their fifth consecutive wins Sunday afternoon.

Freedom plays host to a dangerous Fond du Lac team, which boasts a no-hit pitcher, Bob Pittler. LC-K invades Kaukauna for a neighborhood tussle with the once-victorious Klubbers.

If LC-K and Freedom get by their games tomorrow as well as their mid-week assignments, their Sunday, June 24, meeting will settle the first half championship.

In other games tomorrow, defending champion Menasha travels to Morrison, and Green Bay's Bluejays will be at Harrison.

The Maes, who were nipped by Freedom, 3-2, last Sunday will attempt to stay in the title running.

Manthey to Hurl
Freedom will have Howard Manthey on the mound in search of his fifth straight victory. Manthey, with an assortment of slow, breaking pitches has exhibited near-perfect control in previous games. Either Pittler or John Gores will be on the hill for Fond du Lac.

Faye Mehlberg (2-0) or Hank Peerenboom (1-0) will probably do the pitching for LC-K. Kaukauna will probably have Leigh Wachel or Ed Schaefer on the mound.

Menasha's Jim Meyer will probably get the starting nod opposing Morrison's Bob Roffers.

Dick Crabbe will be the likely starter for Green Bay at Harrison. Either John Stoffel or Dennis Krueger will hurl for Harrison.

'A Scandalous Situation'

Sen. Long Demands Investigation Of Academies' Football Recruiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., accused the Military Academy at West Point Friday of seeking to recruit or "steal away" every potential All-America football player in the country.

He told the Senate it is a scandalous situation and said a full-scale congressional investigation is in order.

Long also complained that Army had turned down his request for the names of members of Congress appointing West Pointers. He demanded to know "what they are trying to hide."

Long recalled he testified recently before the Senate Armed Services Committee on a House-passed bill to strengthen all the service academies. He said he highly successful Paul Dietzel wanted to make sure it wouldn't be a bill "to augment the strength of the football teams at the academies."

Long charged Friday that it is unpardonable not to reveal there was evidence of violations of the system of congressional appointments to the academies, "who are appointing these contract-breakers."

While he said his research was largely confined to the situation at West Point he did not "mean to confer any mantle on the other services for I suspect they are equally guilty."

With reference to West Point, he said, "We have here a scandalous situation of substantial proportion. The law is being violated and the Army is covering up the facts."

"It seems to me that a full-

scale investigation of the entire matter is indicated."

Long said he was outraged at what he said was "unashamed admission" of the military academy's athletic authorities that they "intend, if possible, to regulate, entice or steal away every potential All-American in the country."

Long also described as an outrageous the Army's recruiting of a football coach who had four years of Congress appointing West Pointers to run on a five-year contract with another university, and "now proceed on a nation-wide recruiting drive to get men who have already signed grants-in-aid to break these contracts."

West Point last year hired the service academies. He said he highly successful Paul Dietzel wanted to make sure it wouldn't be a bill "to augment the strength of the football teams at the academies."

Long charged Friday that it is unpardonable not to reveal there was evidence of violations of the system of congressional appointments to the academies, "who are appointing these contract-breakers."

While he said his research was largely confined to the situation at West Point he did not "mean to confer any mantle on the other services for I suspect they are equally guilty."

With reference to West Point, he said, "We have here a scandalous situation of substantial proportion. The law is being violated and the Army is covering up the facts."

"It seems to me that a full-

scale investigation of the entire matter is indicated."

Long said in that case, according to the player's mother, the youth "had no interest in the Army until the football recruiters arrived on the scene."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., earlier this month complained to Army officials that Dietzel was recruiting South Carolina football prospects. He said Dietzel enticed two South Carolina players to attend West Point after they had signed to go to South Carolina and Clemson.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., backed Long's demand for an investigation. "We all know there have been abuses in appointments to the service academies," Keating said.

He said he was talking not just about West Point but also the Naval Academy and the Air Force Academy.

Keating said that, in violation of the law, men are being named to the service academies from districts and states where they don't reside.

Any Home In The World, and especially yours, will look better, brighter, bigger and more beautiful with a wonderful application of Struensee Manufacturing company's aluminum siding. Here is the home of Eddie Terrell, popular Menasha service station operator, and his like-new home at 332 Oak street, Menasha. Call Struensee today to find out what it would be like to have siding on your home.

Try The Skelly Farm Power Pair, suggest Jenkel Oil company, local Skelly distributor. Jenkel is ready to serve those farm machines and is located at 1201 N. Badger avenue. Telephone number of the firm is RE 9-1144.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. developed a better bait-casting reel, thanks to Ted Williams. Williams, famous sportsman, is now the new full-time consultant for Sears.

When Sears was developing a new bait-casting reel, the firm called in the new full-time consultant, Ted Williams. This baseball player, the only .400 hitter since 1930, also has few equals as a fisherman and hunter. No wonder the men in the Sears sporting goods department respect his judgment and latch on to his ideas. His cold, professional viewpoint on the quality of every piece of Sears sports equipment is heard before it gets into the Sears catalog or any one of the 740 department stores, including the one in Appleton.

Here is what he had to say about the reel: "I like to throw that bait way out there, and a free-spooling reel is what you need to do it. This is the best one I've ever seen. The automatic engaging feature is great. The wider level wind carriage makes a lot of sense. Coating the level wind with Teflon really cuts down friction."

"One small change I'd like to see you make. With this new free-spooling feature, there is no reason for having two counterbalanced handles. I'd eliminate one. Make the other arm longer and the grip bigger. Flatten it out to fit your fingers."

Sears' designers got to work and quickly handmade several single-arm handles according to Ted's suggestions. Ted looked them over and picked one. Molds were

The Skelly farm power pair is Skelly gasoline and Skelly fortified Tagolene H. D. Motor oil. Jenkel Oil company, 1201 N. Badger avenue suggests to farmers that they try this winning combination this summer for the finest performance they've ever had. Call Jenkel at RE 9-1144.

Skelly gasoline is formulated so that your equipment engines squeeze every drop of power from it and offers a new high in farm efficiency. New additives, Skelly Keotane, keep your engine knock-free, your tanks and fuel system clean and free from rust and corrosion.

Skelly fortified Tagolene H. D. Motor Oil keeps farm engines running better, longer, even under the hardest going, heavy-duty operation. Cold weather or hot, fortified Tagolene protects your engine and keeps it clean for longer life and lowest operating cost.

Jenkel tells farmers that just by switching gasoline and motor oil, they can plow up to 10 per cent more ground at no extra cost. Today's tractors will put out top horsepower only if fed a high octane diet and kept clean. Jenkel says that's why more and more farmers are switching to the Skelly "farm power pair" (Skelly Tagolene H. D. Motor Oil).

It's the one combination of gasoline and motor oil with advantages that can give you up to 10 per cent more power at no extra cost. Jenkel claims that dirty gum and varnish deposits cause rapid wear and lost power. A special Skelly additive, D-22, in Skelly (tailor - made gasoline prevents these deposits. Another special Skelly additive called D-5 in Skelly (tailor-made gasoline prevents rust and corrosion in fuel tanks and lines.

made and that handle is now on this new bait-casting reel. This reel is available only at Sears. It costs $20, with deluxe vinyl padded case. Matching rod, also $20.

It is busy freezing time for most homemakers and lucky is the little lady with a roomy new freezer from Good Housekeeping Shop. Here is truly savings and extra goodness for her family. The Good Housekeeping Shop is located at 425 W. College avenue.

Although some of the management is spending its time holding the building up, to keep it from falling into the excavation next door, the clerks are always happy at Good Housekeeping Shop to advise the busy housewives.

And housewives are busy these days. There are meals to cook, shopping to do, and bushels and bushels of summer produce to "put up."

Good Housekeeping says do it the easy way this year. Spend more time with your family instead of hours of hot sticky work in the kitchen. How? Why, it is easy with a new and roomy freezer in your home.

Good Housekeeping has wonderful buys on new modern freezers that are just made for today's busy housewife. She can shop for days and days of delicious eating, all at one time, having complete meals at her finger tips and with no worry when unexpected guests drive up for Sunday dinner.

She can cook and bake on cool days and keep ready-to-heat-and-serve meals stored in her freezer so meal preparing on those hot and sticky days will be a snap. She can give up the steamy kettles and boiling jars this year. By catching favorite produce at its peak of perfection and at its lowest price, she can stock up and freeze this year instead of tedhandling most of the business, which is located 8 miles south of Neenah on County Trunk A.

In addition to aluminum siding, the firm also manufactures several different styles of doors, windows, awnings, railings, gutters, jealousies and fiber awnings.

The fact that many of these things are manufactured by Struensee Manufacturing company means better service on all parts and a low, low factory to you price.

Call Struensee now and get more information about your aluminum needs. There is a Neenah number, PA 2-0197.

See Manufacturing company puts on aluminum siding, it is a thorough job. Every single part of the house is covered. This includes the over-hang, the cornice, and the window casings as well as the side of the house. Truly, here is a house with no maintenance.

And Struensee is a name you know and can trust. The firm started 61 years ago by Louis Struensee, has been in the same family for three generations, growing in stature and reliability. Since the retirement of Arthur, his two sons, grandsons of the founder, Earl and Louis, are now

The invention of aluminum siding has meant a lot to home owners. Struensee Manufacturing company has seen the smiles of happy home owners as they view the beauty of their home in new aluminum siding.

The firm knows too there will be smiles this summer when their homes are hot and sticky, but the well-insulated aluminum home is cool and comfortable.

Also the firm knows that there will be still more smiles next winter when drafts and cold walls are no longer part of the way of life in an aluminum sided house.

In years to come, the smiles continue, because when Stru-

Work on Treatment Plant Progressing

Brickwork on New Building Completed; Hole for Tanks Dug

MENASHA — Work on the treatment plant town of Menasha's Sanitary District No. 4 treatment facilities is progressing satisfactorily, Town Chairman Amos D. Page reported today.

Roof boards were being placed

A large hole, 22 feet deep, has been dug for the treatment tanks and a well driller is to arrive next week to begin drilling for water. Peat was found at a depth of 19 feet in the excavation for the tanks. Most of the soil is red clay.

Sewer excavation is in progress along County Trunk P and the road has been closed during the day to traffic to permit the excavation and then opened each night.

Easements are being secured for extending the sanitary sewer through private property south to State 114 in order to serve the southern end of the sanitary district.

Green Bay Toasts Ship On Maiden Trip

Fire Boat Spouts As Swedish Vessel Enters First Port

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Green Bay toasted the S. S. Odensholm, a new ocean-going cargo ship of the Swedish-American line, with a hearty "skol" Friday afternoon.

The Green Bay Fire Dept. boat, the Tonawanda, sent up three high sprays, two from the stern and one from a 2½-inch hose at the bow, to greet the new seaway-designed ship on her first port call in Green Bay.

The Odensholm is the first of four new sister-ships being put into service between Great Lakes ports and northern Europe via the St. Lawrence Seaway by Swedish-American Lines.

In a shipboard ceremony arranged by the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce, civic and business leaders extended a welcome to the new ship on her maiden voyage across the Atlantic and into the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway.

An autographed football signed by members of the 1961 world championship Green Bay Packers was presented to Capt. Frithjof Peterson.

Barn, Other Buildings Burn Near Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — An early morning fire today destroyed several farm buildings and threatened the house on the Norman Klienschmidt farm before Town of Oshkosh and Town of Vinland firemen got the wind-whipped blaze under control.

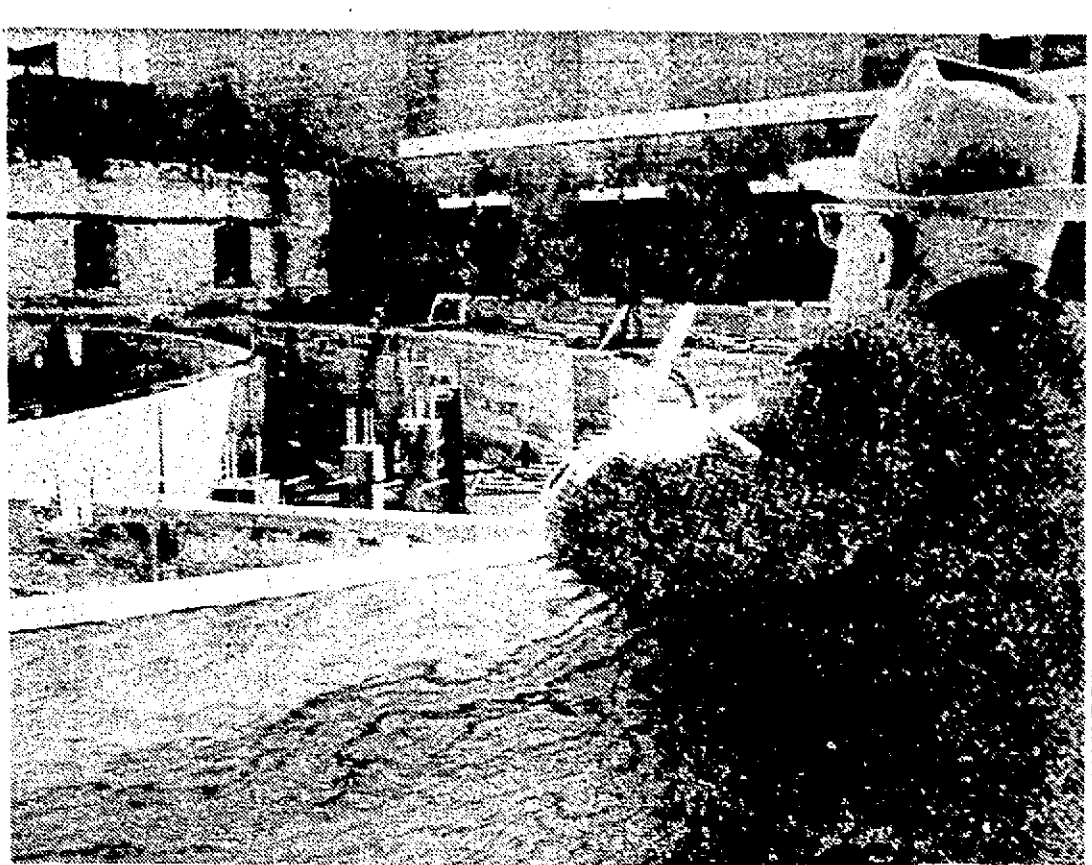

A 40 by 60-foot barn and a storage building were destroyed and a machine shed badly damaged. The fire was discovered at 5:10 a.m. by David McBrat, who lives across the road from Klienschmidt on County Trunk J, just off U.S. 43.

A garage, about 50 feet from the barn, was scorched. One pig and several setting ducks were killed. All other livestock escaped safely.

Cause of the blaze is unknown and there has been no estimate of damage. Town of Oshkosh Fire Chief Charles Fernau said the fire apparently started in the peak of the barn.

Robert Last, Jr., looks less than joyful about pulling his pooch down College Avenue in the kids' dog parade sponsored by the Viking theater. The young owner of the nonchalant dog is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Last.

Harvey Blue, a Customer of the First National Bank of Appleton for 63 years, watches workmen as progress is made on the bank's new "drive-in" bank on the southwest corner of Appleton and Washington Streets. The installation, which will have five separate service islands, is scheduled to be completed in August.

Two Week Workshop

Menasha Student to Attend UW High School Journalism Class

MENASHA — Suellyn Brezinski, winner of the Post-Crescent scholarship for the 1962 Summer High School Journalism Workshop at the University of Wisconsin, will leave Sunday for the Madison campus where the two week course is being held.

Miss Brezinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Brezinski, 323 Willow Lane, was selected on the basis of her essay on "The Importance of a Good Local Newspaper to the Community" for the $76 award to pay tuition and living expenses. The Menasha High School junior's essay was selected over 40 submitted by high school students in the Post-Crescent's circulation area.

There will be 108 students participating in this year's journalism workshop under the direction of Ralph O. Nafziger. This is the first year the session has been planned for two weeks and offers fuller programs than in previous years.

"Do's and Don'ts" This week Suellyn has been studying a list of "do's and don'ts" sent from the workshop staff together with full instructions for the two week stay. Outstanding in her mind were "Do bring a travel iron" and "Don't bring an alarm clock."

Journalism students will be housed in dormitories adjoining the agriculture campus on Lake Mendota and will attend classes send a weekly report to the Post-Crescent on her activities.

"My plans for college are definite but my major is not," she said. "This opportunity to learn more about journalism may change my ideas about becoming a teacher."

The course ends June 30.

Studies will include techniques

"lights out" at 10 p.m.

Details Not Clear

Details of the accident were not immediately clear, although authorities said Vanden Avond, traveling north on the Manitowoc Road, apparently was making a left turn onto the side road when the crash occurred.

The driver of the other car, Francis DeGreef, 17, route 3, Green Bay, had rounded a slight curve in the road, traveling in the same direction as Vanden Avond.

In addition to curving, the road also rises at the approach to the intersection. Authorities believe DeGreef may not have seen Vanden Avond's car in time to stop.

Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Oxford to Give Degree to Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will receive an honorary doctor's degree from England's Oxford University, diplomatic sources reported.

Rusk will receive his honorary title when he visits Britain later this month on a 10-day tour of Western Europe. As a Rhodes scholar, he received a master's degree from Oxford's St. John's College.

The State Department would not confirm the report and said that such an announcement traditionally comes from the university awarding the degree.

Construction of Atomic Particle Accelerator Planned Near Madison

BY DON DOUGLAS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Midwest Research Association has told of plans to build a $79 million high intensity atomic particle accelerator near the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

A spokesman said that plans have been submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Prof. H. R. Crane, of the University of Michigan physics department, said the device is used to increase the energy of atomic particles in research projects. He said it would have a beam of protons (the measure of the number of particles being accelerated) some 2,000 times greater than accelerators at the Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island and at Cern, Switzerland.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "I misdoubt his statement." It is better to say, "I doubt his statement."

Often Mispronounced: Minutia (minor detail). Pronounce mi-nyu-shi-ah, accent on second syllable.

Often Misspelled: Elicit (to draw out); only one "l." Elliptical (having a part omitted); observe the first two "l's."

Synonyms: Inaccurate, incorrect, inexact, erroneous, wrong, improper, mistaken, unjust, awry, unsuitable, improper.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: Disingenuous; not frank and candid; also, meanly or unworthily artful; deceivably simple. (Pronounce diss-in-jenn-yu-us, principal accent on third syllable). "We must be wary of this disingenuous office seeker."

the Vanden Avond vehicle was halfway through its left turn.

The impact spun Vanden Avond's car around, throwing the driver to the pavement. The car did not have seat belts. As Vanden Avond lay on the road, his car apparently continued to spin around. As it came around again, it passed over Vanden Avond, coming to rest upright on top of him.

Police said they had to tip the car onto its side in order to free the body.

Treated for Injuries

DeGreef was taken to St. Vincent Hospital where he was admitted for treatment of nose and neck injuries.

The crash raised Brown County's traffic toll for the year to 14, compared with eight one year ago. The total does not include single fatalities in Green Bay and De Pere.

A mother and child were killed early today in a Walworth County highway accident while a Milwaukee pedestrian was injured fatally when struck by a car.

The deaths increased Wisconsin's 1962 traffic toll to 354, or two more than on this date last year.

Mrs. William Corning of route 3, Harvard, Ill., and her two-month old infant were killed around 2:30 a.m. today in a two-car accident on Highway 14 about a mile and a half south of Walworth.

Raymond Higgins, 77, of Milwaukee, was killed this morning when struck by a car as he walked on a roadway in the south part of the city. Authorities said Higgins was a deaf mute.

Ozaukee County
Edward Caboon, 70, of Racine, was injured fatally Friday when his car struck a tree after leaving Highway 141 about six miles south of Port Washington in Ozaukee County. He died en route to a hospital, where his wife was confined with a back injury and fractured ankle.

Thomas Wardman, 24, of rural Edgerton, was killed Friday night when his car smashed against a guard railing on the State 59 overpass carrying traffic over Interstate Highway 90 in Rock County. Police said the left side of the car was torn away in the crash and that the vehicle then struck the rail on the opposite side.

Fisherman Fined For Illegal Bait

NEW LONDON — William McAloon, 1223 Elmwood St., Oshkosh, paid a $10 fine when he appeared before Municipal Justice Herman H. Platte, Friday and pleaded guilty to a charge of using live bait under five inches long on a set line.

McAloon pleaded innocent of not having the proper flag staffs for his set line flags and carrying a loaded gun in a boat while the motor was running. A trial date on the two charges was not set.

American Legion Plans Parade to Celebrate City Homecoming

WITTENBERG — Final plans were made for the Wittenberg Homecoming celebration sponsored by the Bloecher-Johnson Post of the American Legion, at their meeting at the Legion Hall Tuesday night. Lee Radun was named general chairman of the celebration. Named to the parade committee were Mrs. Carl Larsen, Mrs. Roland Pukall and Mrs. Amy Hoffman.

Officers elected for the next year were Commander Donald Fisher, first vice-commander, Roger Schmidt, second vice-commander, Gordon Cowles, adjutant, Roger Hanke, finance officer, Charles Burke, historian, Floyd Doering, membership chairman, Arthur Cappel, sergeant-at-arms, Melvin Strong, service officer, Roland Pukall, athletic officer, Carl Larsen, publicity chairman, and Lyman Laude, chaplain.

State Public Welfare Re-Elects Secretary

CHILTON — Calumet County's director of public welfare, Miss Florence Woelfel, has been re-elected secretary of the Wisconsin Public Welfare Association.

The election was part of the group's annual business meeting at Wausau.

County case workers, Desmond Rice and Richard Cywinski, and welfare board members, George Hostettler and Alys Butler, also attended the annual session.

Roosevelt Park will have supervision from 9 a.m. to noon daily and from 6 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Thursday and Friday. Park play leaders will be Mary Ellen Millis, Tom Rooyackers, Dawn Block, Marlene Timmers and Dave Minten.

"The first week will be get acquainted week and the first handicraft project will be popscicle name plates. Special event for the week will be a scavenger hunt on Wednesday evening.

Movies Planned
A movie, "Gidget," will be shown at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at Jansen School in Combined Locks and at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the Kimberly High School auditorium.

Baseball leagues have been organized in both communities and the Senior Grade League for boys from sixth through eighth grades will begin Monday. Kimberly teams are the Rockets headed by Mike Gage, Ghosts headed by Bill Kroner, Bulldogs headed by Gordy Smith, Papermakers headed by Mike Winus, Raiders captained by Dave Smits and Truckers led by Bill DeWilt. Boys not signed can register Monday.

The Senior League at Combined Locks is for boys from fifth through eighth grades. Teams and captains are Braves, Greg Torgeson; Cards, Mike Hulsman; Celts, Gary Van Gompel and Meis, Jerry Lamers.

A Cub League at Kimberly for boys from the third through fifth grade will play games on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Teams and captains are Tigers, Bill Lamers; Angels, Pat Hermus; Orioles, Wayne Liebhen; Senators, Bruce Eiting; Yanks, Jim Gage; White Sox, Greg Van Grinsven; Twins, Steve Winus and Indians, Gary Wyngaard.

A PeeWee League for boys from the first and second grade will play Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. Teams and captains are Braves, Dan Schmeck; Pirates, Jeff Hietpas; Giants, Tim Vandehey; Mets, Dave Phalen; Cards, Greg Vanden Heuvel; Reds, Mike Van Deraa, and Colts, Nick Frassetto. Older boys have been assigned duties as managers for these teams.

Softball Plans
Boys in kindergarten through second grade wishing to play softball are to report for an organizational meeting at the ball field at 1 p.m. Monday. Boys planning to play in the sixth through eighth grade basketball league will report to the outdoor court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

A basketball league for high school boys will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, with Rick Polman to captain the Celtics; Al Schmidt, the Knicks; Al Hietpas, Hawks, and Wes Vander Veiden, the Royals.

Green Bay Cheese

GREEN BAY (AP) — Active trading on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange today resulted in sale of one car past daisies at 25 1/2 in 1962, the congregation was for cents or 14 cent over the last sale the first eight years a mission, served by pastors of neighboring congregations. The Rev. Anthony Leitner became the first resident pastor in 1870.

Urges Pupils To Register Before June 22

CHILTON — First grade registration for the 1962-63 school year at Chilton Public School before June 22 has been urged by A. W. Gordon, superintendent.

To be eligible to attend first grade, the child must be six years old before Dec. 1.

Parents planning to send their children to the school are asked to register them either by calling the public school office or by stopping there.

Gordon said he believed many parents of kindergarten age children, especially those living in rural areas recently attached to the school district, are aware that the young children can attend kindergarten tuition free. Although they may have failed to register the children during the previous registration period, they can still register them by contacting the school before June 22.

Girl Hurt When Brushed by Auto

A motorist left his name with an 11-year-old girl he brushed with his automobile at the intersection of Goodall and Lave streets about 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Mary Rector, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Rector, 1417 S. Lave St., received bruises and cuts when she darted between parked cars into the street and was brushed by an oncoming car, police said.

The driver of the car left the scene after giving Mary his name. The girl's mother reported the accident to police and said her daughter is being treated by a doctor.

Little Chute Youth Admits Leaving Scene Of Tuesday Accident

COMBINED LOCKS — James Jansen, 19, 1022 LaFollette St., Little Chute, pleaded guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $35 by Wayne Hull, Municipal Justice Court.

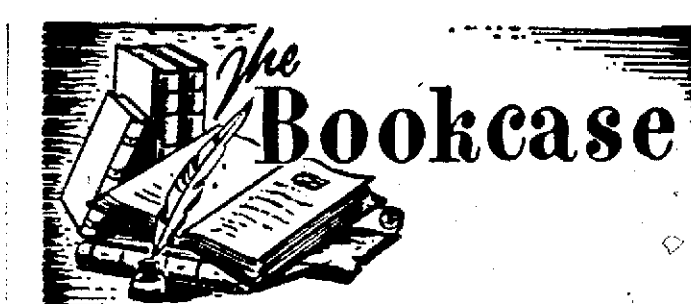

Jansen struck a utility pole in the village Tuesday night and drove away without reporting the accident to police. Parts of the car and paint enabled Combined Locks Police Chief Ernest Danielson and Dewey Hartjes, Little Chute police sergeant, to trace the car.

Student Driver's Auto Hits Tree

MENASHA — A car crashed into a tree Friday night when its operator, a student driver, lost control.

Driving was Miss Barbara Ann Zastrow, 16, 845 London St. Also in the car was her father, Herman Zastrow.

Miss Zastrow told police her foot slipped off the brake pedal to the accelerator at a stop on Marquette Street and the car went into the tree.

Herman Wouk's New Novel Long, Frankly Commercial

(Youngblood Hawke, by Herman Wouk. Doubleday, $7.95.)

BY VAN VALLEN BRADLEY

Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — For sheer hefty alone (781 pages, 2 pounds 5 ounces in dust jacket) this June selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club is probably entitled to be called the book of the week.

It should be noted, however, that even Clifton Fadiman, a gentleman who grazes around quite speedily in the literary pastures, is a little hard put to it in writing the club's endorsement of this gargantuan and decidedly commercial novel.

No dainty nibbler, he warns that "this is a book to be read in gulps (it's too long for polite swallows)." All of which, of course, is a somewhat cavalier attitude to take toward the digestive apparatus of the reader.

In truth, "Youngblood Hawke" is, for all its appalling waste of storytelling talent, a marvel of technical proficiency. It is a glittering, chrome-plated product of literary inventiveness, a prime example of the novel that is fabricated unabashedly for the popular market.

Pre-Publication Success
It was already a thunderous success before its publication: it has been serialized in McCall's Magazine (for $150,000) and sold to the movies (for $500,000).

Yet it is curiously in itself the kind of financial success that it appears to be attacking.

For the hero of the title is a tremendously creative writer who burns himself out by trying to write his way into a fortune, after which he plans to settle down and write the great novel he really wants to write.

Modeled on Wolfe
Obviously the model for Youngblood Hawke is the late, great Thomas Wolfe, the North Carolina literary genius whose motivation was not at all the same as that of Wouk's literary hero.

Youngblood Hawke — Arthur or "Art" to his friends — comes to New York in 1945 from the coal hills of Kentucky, much in the same manner as the young Wolfe himself had emerged from his own southern balliwick some years before.

Hawke, like Wolfe, is a huge, hulking man of tremendous life and gusto, a prodigious reader, a man from whom novels gush in a wild, artesian torrent of talent.

The similarities to Wolfe's life and career are several like Wolfe, he climbs rapidly and dizzily to the literary heights, only to be stricken in his prime by a brain disease.

Aside from the injustices he has done to the memory of Thomas Wolfe in this shameless distortion of his career, Wouk has committed other offenses that will dismay the mature reader. It is obvious that he has never truly listened to or learned southern speech.

Beyond this, there is always an air of unreality in the tumultuous town with an impossible name like Weepauckett, and you decide against buying it after all.

2. On sunny weekends you gather up your wife and daughter and actually go out to the suburbs and inspect one of the dear little homes which some friend has said would be perfect for your family.

Real Peril

There is a real peril here for the almost-buyer of houses. In the fun of mentally owning a really nice dwelling, a man is in danger of absent-mindedly putting down some ready cash, and finding himself stuck.

But if he keeps his wits about, him the almost-buyer can always find something wrong with any home. He can point out the attic is too near the basement, or the back door is too far from the nearest saloon, or imagine how the driveway would look under 12 feet of snow.

In the end the almost-buyer shakes his head regretfully and says, "It's nice, real nice. But just not quite what I wanted."

I know exactly what I want.

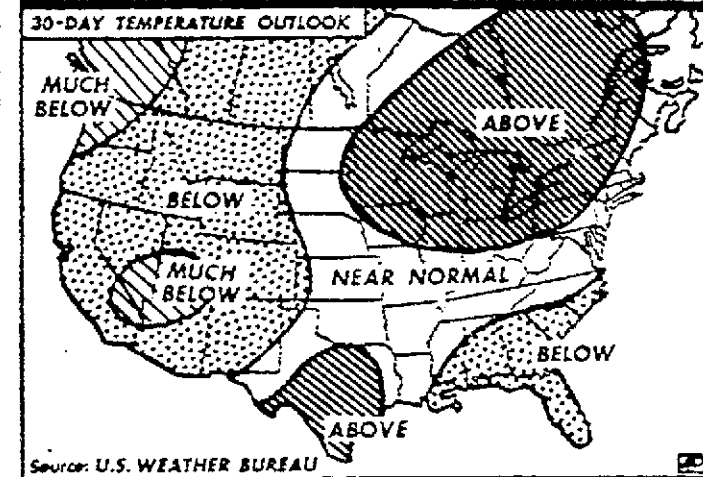

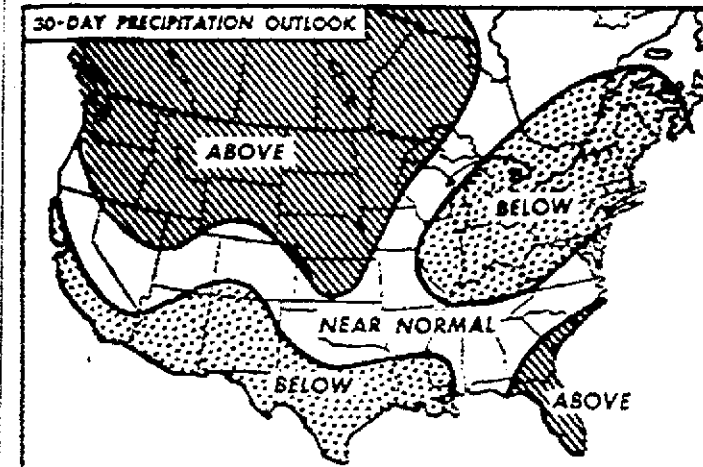

Old-Fashioned House

I want a house exactly like the one I was raised in in Kansas City, Mo. I want a big rambling old-fashioned white house with a front porch and a nice shady lawn and a backyard large enough to pitch horseshoes in and hold a family picnic.

But I don't want this house at the end of a deity-forsaken railroad 90 miles away in the suburbs. I want it right in the center of Times Square.

Of course, the price has to be right, too. I have in mind about $5,000—which is what my father paid for the house I was raised in.

If anybody puts a house like that on the market, I'll rob a banker if necessary to get up the put-down money.

These Maps, Based on those supplied today by the United States Weather Bureau, forecast the probable rainfall and temperatures for the next 30 days.

Volunteers Battle Scandinavia Fires

Second Major Blaze in Week Causes $5,000 Damage to Home

SCANDINAVIA — A fire in the upper floor. Chief Mork said attic and second floor of the Mar-firenmen pumped water out of the tin Mork home Friday caused nearby Scandinavia Mill Pond. Firemen stayed at the scene until about 9 p. m., extinguishing fires in the walls and furniture.

The department also was called about 1 p. m. Thursday to extinguish a grass fire at the Lynn Roe farm, route 1, Scandinavia, five miles east of Scandinavia.

Waller Family Jinxed By Cane Run Road

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cane Run Road was no place for the Waller family of Louisville.

Police said Forrest B. Waller, 56, was headed south on Cane Run Friday when his car was struck from the rear and slammed into the rear of a third car, which hit a fourth.

Forty-five minutes later, Waller's daughter, Elizabeth, pulled out of a drive-in restaurant at between $4,000 and $5,000. The fire also scorched the siding on the milk house, which was located near the granary.

The Mork fire destroyed the second floor, attic and roof. Furniture and personal belongings in the downstairs was saved by firemen and neighbors.

What About A Guarantee?

The Gushman Money-Back Used Car Guarantee is something really special. It's just this simple - If you don't like the used car you buy from us for any reason, just bring it back in 24 hours and we'll refund every penny you've paid for the car. And we'll offer to do this for you, because we KNOW our cars are better and we know they'll satisfy you.
